

Hancock and Brooke County's future is bright because of Natural Gas.

70,900

The number of jobs that depend on the Natural Gas Industry in West Virginia. The Oil and Natural Gas Industry directly employ 38,200 workers, accounting for direct labor income of over $2 billion, generating $5.4 billion of value added to the state economy.

$260,000

The amount of taxes received in Wood County from just the property and severance tax in 2016. Taxes paid by the Natural Gas Industry help fund and operate local governments.

$1.97 Billion

The total wages paid to Natural Gas workers. The average worker in the Natural Gas Industry earns $69,888 annually. That's a good salary to help pay for groceries, haircuts, children's education, or a donation to a local charity.
